[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

EASTERN DATES TO AUGUST 13.

BY THE CABLES.

Dispatches from Paris.

PARIS, Aug. 12.—The report that the Prussians occupy Nancy is untrue.

Fears that famine would be added to the horrors of war in France have been dissipated. Wheat crops this year exceed the average forty per cent.

PARIS, Aug. 12.—Communication with Strasbourg is interrupted. The Prussians are massed around the city. The Emperor is still at Metz.

The Corps Legislatif is still surrounded by troops, including 4,000 regular cuirassiers and marines, supported by the Paris Guard and the National Guard.

The irritation against the Emperor and the old Administration is increasing daily. Deputies and ministers are in utter confusion. The new Cabinet has everything to reorganize.

Official information about recent losses is still withheld. Paris is exasperated by the bad faith of the Government, which has promised to give all the news.

PARIS, August 13.—In the Corps Legislatif, the Minister of War read the following dispatch: "I have accepted the resignation of M. Le Bouf as Major General of the army.

(Signed) NAPOLEON."

Valdrome, formerly Minister of the Interior, has enrolled himself as a member of Garde Nationale.

The Journal Official publishes a decree, naming Bazaine commander-in-chief of the Second and Fourth corps; Trochu commander of the corps now forming at Chalons from new levies, and Gen. Virrey commander of the corps now forming in Paris.

METZ, August 12, 3 P. M.—A body of the enemy came near Frouard, a station on the Paris and Strasbourg railroad, this morning. They were attacked and driven off and their commander captured. To-day our cavalry made a brilliant reconnoissance in the direction of the river Neide. The enemy's couriers and small bodies of cavalry penetrated far into the country, but the main body of their army is not making any forward movement.

Dispatch from Berlin.

BERLIN, Aug. 12.—The Bavarian army has passed through the Vosges, and bivouacked last night near Saarlouis.

A small vessel, persisting in entering the Johl in spite of warning of danger, ran against a torpedo and was blown up.

It is reported to-day that a proclamation is forthcoming declaring the intention of the Prussian forces to burn a French village for each place destroyed by French fleets in bombardment of German ports.

Dispatches from London.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The German forces between Radstadt and Cologne are said to aggregate 75,000 men.

According to the Paris Siecle, 25,000 Germans are now in Lorraine.

A Paris correspondent says it is reported there that the Prussian armies are penetrating France in three grand divisions, by way of Forbac, or Metz, by way of Weissenburg and Mulhausen. They evidently intend crossing the Vosges and making for Nancy.

French soldiers are furious at the want of organization. On the 6th the soldiers fought, fasting, and after the battle there was no distribution of food for four days, the soldiers living upon potatoes from the neighboring fields.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—A desperate fight occurred to-day at Derry between Catholics and Orangemen, in which three persons were killed and several wounded. The military were obliged to interfere to restore order.

A letter from Rome, dated the 5th, states that the Pope declares, in case of the hostile occupation of any portion of the Pontifical territory, he will leave the Papal dominions and probably go to Malta.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—A Tribune special dated London, Aug. 12th, says the investment of Strasbourg was not known in Paris until yesterday, (Friday.)

A special correspondent of the Tribune writes from Paris, Thursday, that the truth is slowly leaking out. It shows that the position of the French army is worse and worse. Two days ago a dispatch, meant to be reassuring, was placarded stating that Failly had established communication with McMahon. It now appears that these communications were established in the field of the last battle of Werth. Failly came up with a division of infantry and shared McMahon's defeat. The official dispatch says he covered his retreat. McMahon got into Saverne on Sunday, but had to clear out in the evening, and Saverne is now occupied by the Prussians. McMahon's position, in all probability, is deplorable, driven as he is into barren mountains with the wreck of an army, without money, arms, or provisions. It is not known in Paris where he is at this time. The enemy being in possession of Saverne, has cut off communication, whether by rail or telegraph, between Strasbourg or Paris. It is known that a large Prussian army, which must have taken Mulhausen, is on its way to reinforce the Crown Prince at Saverne.

Cable telegrams say Bismarck believes there will certainly be a revolution in Paris, and that he counsels waiting until he sees who will come into power.

LONDON, August 13.—Advices from St. Avold to Friday night, state that the French army is west of Moselle and still retreating. Prussian cavalry had reached Ponts A'Mousson, about half way between Metz and Nancy, on the railroad. Part of the Prussian army has invested Strasbourg. The Prussians, as they advance, capture vast stores abandoned by the French.

The cholera has broken out in towns on the shore of the Black Sea. Vessels are quarantined at Liverpool.

The Orange celebration at Londonderry, yesterday, was the occasion of much violence and a number of desperate affrays, which assumed such proportions at one time, that the riot act was read. Forty persons were injured.

Advices through Prussian channels from St. Avold to the 12th, state that the Prussians have taken 7,100 prisoners. Saarbrucken was more demoralizing to the French than has been supposed. Their pursurers found arms and equipments on the road worth millions of francs. The Prussians hold Pfalsburg and adjoining passages of the Vosges.

The Prussian and French iron-clad fleets were recently in close proximity off the mouth of the Elbe.

The Prussians hold all the avenues of communication between Metz and Strasbourg. The Prussian cavalry are before Luneville.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 13.—The Democrats last night nominated Col. Wm. Dolan for Public Administrator, as anticipated, but contrary to expectation Noah Flood defeated Denman for School Superintendent. The ticket now stands: Austin, Tax Collector, Smith, Superintendent Streets, Hixson, Chief of Police, Nudges, City Attorney, Holt, Auditor, Dolan, Public Administrator, Flood, Superintendent Schools. Convention adjourned to Monday evening.

Rev. F. Dillon Egan, of this city, was married to Miss Rosalie Tilden, at the Church of the Advent a few days ago.

The Call says under the action of the law which places the assaying of bullion into private hands, the Superintendent of the Mint has recently discharged 15 persons who had been employed in the assaying department. It is stated that the Bank of California has secured a monopoly of the assaying business.

The sentence of Major Jack Stratman to six months imprisonment in the county jail for a libel published on J. C. Davenport the [illegible] by Judge Lake, to-day, has created quite a stir in the community, the general impression being that it will have a wholesome effect on the public mind and serve to restrain the irresponsible portion of the press from indulging in such attacks hereafter. Stratman was much excited when the sentence was pronounced. He claims to have been betrayed by his friends, who counselled him into the course which he followed and then deserted him when trouble came upon him.

Weather sultry.

A Chinese fruit dealer in Jackson street, was arrested to-day, on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon upon a white boy, whom he cut slightly with a pair of scissors for stealing grapes from him.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 13.—A habeas corpus will be taken out in the case of Major Jack Stratman, for release on bail, pending an appeal to the Supreme Court.

Thomas Sheppard and wife were arrested on complaint of John McIntosh, who charges them with assault to murder him, in a quarrel about a stable on Mission street.

It is reported that Hon. S. B. Axtell will soon return to make arrangements for canvassing the State for the Democratic ticket at the Gubernatorial election next fall.

John E. Tyler, who shot Dobson, has given bail ($15,000) with Gaston and Julius Reis, D. S. Witherby and Wm. Woodworth as his bondsmen, and has been released.

Miss Fanny Price made a good impression at her debut at Maguire's to-night.

The last of the Levy promenade concerts at the Pavilion this evening was finely attended and a pecuniary success.

The Germans remitted $20,000 to the Sanitary fund of the Prussian army to-day.

A naval officer, just arrived from the East, complains that on the Fort Wayne and Chicago railroad he was mistaken by an officer and the conductor for a blackleg, and compelled by them to pay them a considerable sum, which they alleged he had beaten a man out of in Philadelphia. He proposes to sue the railroad company for damages.

The public wheat telegram from Liverpool gives the price for California wheat in that market to-day at 10s. 10d., a decline of 2d. since yesterday.

The jobbing trade during the past week has been very active. All the leading staples of groceries are steady and measurably firm. Coffee has been more active, closing at an advance of one cent on leading descriptions. The advance in sugar is maintained, though there is less activity. Teas are in fair demand at old prices. Rice is quite firm, in consequence of higher prices in China, through a partial failure of the crop in Japan.

INTERIOR CALIFORNIA DISPATCHES.

STOCKTON, August 13.—A son of John Capurro, aged 8 years, had his arm broken by a fall last night.

TRUCKEE, August 13.—Pollard's hotel, at Donner Lake, was burned to the ground this morning. Loss, not including furniture, $7,500; no insurance. $500 in legal tenders, belonging to Pollard, were destroyed; also most of the guests' baggage.

LOS ANGELES, August 13.—The Census Marshal for San Bernardino county has completed the work for that county. Valuation this year about six millions.

Extensive fires are raging in Inyo county.

NEVADA.

VIRGINIA CITY, August 13.—The District Court has issued an injunction restraining parties from mining on B street.

Cholera infantum has broken out among the children of this city, and in a number of instances proved fatal. Three children died of it yesterday.

AUSTIN, August 13.—Wells, Fargo & Co. ship to-night nine bars of bullion from Manhattan Mine, valued at $13,5[illegible]0.98.

HAMILTON, August 13.—Ed. Fensler, of Hamilton, is announced as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant Governor of this State. It is reported that W. B. Thornburgh, Democratic candidate for nomination, has withdrawn.

The horse race between Glencoe and Wild Bill, for $1,000, distance 600 yards, at Shermantown to-day, was won by the former.

Wells, Fargo & Co. shipped yesterday to San Francisco, three gold bars, valued at $3,245 39.

VIRGINIA, August 13.—The daily yield of Hale & Norcross mine for the past week has been 23 tons, mostly from the lower level. Savage took out 75 tons per day, last week, all from the lower level. Chollar's yield last week was 280 tons, average assay, $68.

On and after Monday next, Wells, Fargo & Co. put on an accommodation coach between here and Reno, arriving here at 6 o'clock P. M.

Wells, Fargo & Co. ship to-night two bars of bullion, valued at $4,390.33.

UTAH.

CORINNE, August 13.—A letter received in this city states that Dr. S. H. Merple, of Philadelphia, reported in the Omaha Herald as killed at Bitter Creek on the 30th of July, when his party were attacked there by Indians, has turned up at Virginia City, Montana. Dr. Merple was captured by the Indians and taken across Sweet Water, toward Big Horn mountain, in August. Aided by a young squaw who relieved his thongs, he escaped, swam Wind River, crossed the mountains north of Fremont's Peak, and on the 5th fell in with a party of miners, with whom he came to Virginia City.

Fire at Corvallis.

CORVALLIS, August 13.—The dwelling house of Mr. H. Hodes, of this city, was consumed by fire about 5 o'clock this evening. Part of the furniture was saved. The fire is supposed to have originated in a defective flue. Insured in the Pacific for $850.

TOO LATE FOR AN EXPLANATION.—Lord Mark Kerr, who distinguished himself at the battle of Fontenoy, was a good but eccentric officer, and a terrible duelist. His debut was remarkable. He was a lad of slight, effeminate appearance, apparently devoid of spirit. His father, the Marquis of Lothian, when he brought him to London to join his regiment, the Coldstream Guard, requested the Colonel, who was his particular friend, to watch over him, and see that he submitted to no improper liberties, and to instruct him in the way he should go in case he had the misfortune to be insulted. Those were the days of hard drinking, "prodigious swearing," and brutal manners. This pacific young scion of nobility soon became a butt at mess, a stop peg to hang practical jokes on, until at last a Captain of a year's standing threw a glass of wine in his face. He said nothing, but wiped his face with his handkerchief, and took no further notice of the insult he had received.

The Colonel thought it was high time to interfere, and invited him to breakfast, tete-a-tete, on the following morning at 9 o'clock. Lord Mark arrived punctually, ate his breakfast with perfect composure, and spoke but little. At length the commanding officer broke ground:

"Lord Mark," said he, "I must speak to you on rather a delicate subject, but, as your father's friend, I am compelled to waive ceremony. Captain L—— yesterday morning publicly passed an affront on you, which both your honor and the credit of the regiment require you to notice."

"What do you think, sir, I ought to do?" inquired Lord Mark.

"Call on him for an explanation," rejoined the Colonel.

"It is, I fear, too late for that," replied the young ensign, "I shot him at eight this morning, and if you take the trouble to look out of the front window, you will see him on a shutter!"

THE HARD TRUTH OF THE CENSUS.—The St. Joseph Herald is of opinion that the Census taker will explode a good many bubbles—among them the greatness of many Western towns which have been assuming metropolitan airs. There is Kansas City, which has claimed over 35,000, we are assured will actually show less than 18,000; Springfield, Missouri, has 5,[illegible]; Lexington has 4,0[illegible]; Atchison, Kansas, which claimed 10,000 has 5,000. And here, too, is Council Bluffs, laughing at Omaha because the 20,000 population claimed by the latter is about to be reduced by the census to 14,000, and the latter retorts that for every three and that Omaha lacks of 20,000, its rival on this side of the river will fall equally short of 15,000. The enumeration of Omaha depends altogether on whether the census folks count George Francis Train according to their estimate or his own.

"BRIGHT ATTALANTA," WITH THE [illegible] LEFT OUT.—A correspondent, writing from Salt Lake, says:

The Shoshone Indians, whose country stretches from the Sink of the Humboldt have seen the advantages accruing to them from the railroad, and have not been slow to appreciate them and to avail themselves of them. I saw at one station a party of Mrs. and Misses Lo crouching in the dust beside the track. There were two representative youths among them, a buck and a [illegible].

And both were young,
And one was beautiful,

After the aboriginal type. She had covered her bosom with an old black cloth vest, turned wrong side outward, and buttoned up at the back instead of in front, and an old hoop skirt, under that a dilapidated under-shirt, hid, in part, her lower extremities, the interregnum being partially filled by a miner's leather revolver belt, with which she was clothed in humble imitation of her white sisters from the far East, until she could hardly breathe. An ancient Balmoral gaiter of patent leather and prunella adorned one foot, and a number ten pegged cowhide boot of the masculine pattern covered the other, and gave her, by reason of its higher heel trodden over on one side, the true "Alexandra limp," when she walked. He stood silent and lost in contemplation of the progress of civilization and the future of his race, or more probably of the chances of a dead-head ride to the next station, and an opportunity to pick up some articles of clothing, new or second-hand, left within his reach by the unsophisticated travelers. She, on the other hand, looked up at the car windows and incessantly repeated, "Give me two bits! Give me crackers! Give me oranges!" A fat grasshopper jumped upon her head as she thus sat with outstretched arm and upturned face, and, without materially changing her position, she nipped him instantly, pulled off his head as you would a shrimp's, and then quietly transferred him to the capacious cavity in her fine open countenance and with quiet determination closed her graceful jaws. I wonder if "Fair Atlanta" liked grasshoppers, wore hooped skirts and had the Alexandra limp? These Shoshones are the laziest and best-natured dogs on earth. They do not even possess skill, or knowledge, or ambition enough to build any kind of a permanent shelter from the inclemency of the weather at any season. At midwinter they will go out on a hillside, in a driving snow-storm, pile up a lot of sage brush in a semi-circle, say three feet high and ten feet across, to break the wind, and, building a fire in the center, crouch down behind it—men, women and naked babies—and shiver there all night long. They are allowed to ride back and forth on the freight cars and locomotives and tenders of the passenger trains, and evidently regard the railroad as just what it is—a perfect godsend to them, since it puts them out of the way of starvation and insures them a living without even the pretense of labor.

HOW WAR AFFECTS VALUES.—The London Economist of July 16th contains a carefully-prepared statement of the depreciation in the leading national stocks, consequent upon European complications, between the 4th and 12th of July. It must be borne in mind that this was before the formal declaration of war by France, and that the entire amount of depreciation of such securities has now reached at least double the amount quoted. Next to Turkish stock, the largest fall occurred in French rentes, which, on the first mentioned date were quoted at 72.66, and on the latter at 66.50, and taking the total amount of stock so affected at two thousand five hundred millions of dollars in gold, the total amount of depreciation on the 12th of July was one hundred and eighty millions of dollars. Our own securities had fallen from 90¼ to 87¼, and calculating the total stock affected at two thousand one hundred millions of dollars, we have a total depreciation of sixty-three millions three hundred thousand dollars. It is calculated that the total depreciation of Government stocks had, on the date referred to, reached the sum of four hundred and fifty millions of dollars in gold; and taking into account the subsequent movement in the same direction, the cost of a European war, before even a single shot is fired, becomes a very formidable affair. Of course an immense catalogue of railway and other shares suffered a similar fall, and swelled the total to a proportionate degree.

RUSSIA SHOWING HER TEETH.—But where is that fleet which flew so boldly on the waves of the Archipelago? Where are those famous ships which remind us at Sinope of the immortal struggle of Cheshme? The very same Europe whose civilization our grandfathers defended on its eastern boundaries united itself against us for the purpose of avenging the victories which she applauded, and of which she enjoyed the fruits. Sebastopol was the reward for Cheshme and Kagul; but the glory of these victories is the best guarantee that Russia will remain in the East in that degrading position which has been created for her by the Sebastopol allies of Turkey.

A time must come when Russia will get rid of the fetters imposed upon her, and will re-establish her influence so dearly purchased in the East. It is impossible that she should remain forever in the conditions which have been prescribed to her by the Treaty of Paris—with empty harbors, with towns unprotected from the smallest gunboat of Turkey all along the shores of the Black Sea. A great power disarmed in its own waters, a power victorious at Cheshme over the Turks is now undefended against them! Can any one believe in such a thing? can it be true? can history stop at such a fact? Russia must re-establish her power in the Black Sea, and she will re-establish it. Of this no one doubts, not even her enemies, who exert their best efforts only to postpone the decisive day as far as they can.—Moscow Gazette, July 8th.

EXTRAORDINARY LITERARY WORK.—A man died recently in the Rue Cuvier, in Paris, who had labored more than fifty years on a work on humpbacks. He was a wealthy independent bachelor, with an iron constitution, and the singular man spared no sacrifice, had braved danger and fatigue, to gather the innumerable observations he had gathered in his gigantic work. When his heirs were looking for a will, they found the immense manuscript which he had left. It comprises two thousand sheets, with the most exact drawings of innumerable humps, and calculations and observations on the same. The man had traveled over the world [illegible] Europe, Asia, Africa, and America. He had been in Hindoostan and Japan, in Nubia and Abyssinia, just for the purpose of studying the humpbacks of those countries. In the temperate zone in Europe he found the most of them. The most singular observation made by this eccentric explorer was the fact that the humps have a sort of connection with the formation of the surface of the country where they are found. So the humpbacks in the Pyrenees showed the angular, jagged shape of the mountains, while the humpbacks of the sea coast showed on one side a gentle descent. In the humpbacks of the plains the humps smooth down gradually on all sides.

The police authorities of London have issued sets of boxing gloves to the police at the various station houses in the metropolis, and the young constables take kindly to the exercise, in spite of the hot weather, strengthening their muscles and improving their style by practice in the leisure hours between the beats.

It is announced that Gen. Cassius M. Clay will speak at prominent places in Colorado, in behalf of the Republican party.

The Daily Oregonian

MONDAY MORNING AUGUST 15 1870

The Wasco Contested Election

Very glad [illegible] the Herald takes at [illegible] What [illegible] the Wasco [illegible] case. The Oregonian [illegible] Judge Whitten's decision in the [illegible] which the Herald [illegible] which had a [illegible] for all [illegible] for full [illegible] of the [illegible] Democratic press [illegible] Judge Whitten and [illegible] surprised that it should have stopped short of that to [illegible] all [illegible] up [illegible] the present that paper is content to [illegible] a remark which we made [illegible] trial proved [illegible] itself to [illegible] upon the [illegible] of Judge Whitten's [illegible] himself and [illegible] is the youngest and most inexperienced Judge on the Bench. This probably is preparatory to putting the whole matter out of the way after the style of one of Dickens' famous characters. We shall expect the next step will be to dispose of the suit thus without making an appeal to the Supreme Court.

Meantime it may not be amiss to quote a paragraph or two from the Herald and to show how profoundly ignorant it is of the contest in general and of Judge Whitten's decision in particular. It says:

> Judge Whitten decided that in that county there were five votes cast for the Republican candidates which were improperly rejected and that there were five cast and counted for them which were illegal thus leaving those candidates with precisely the same number of legal votes which they had by the official returns.

By reference to Judge Whitten's opinion it will be seen that only one of the votes rejected as to the Republican candidates, was disqualified from voting for all but the county ticket. The disqualification of the other four was that they voted out of their precincts which did not affect their votes for the Legislative ticket. Taking the Herald's own figures this would give Waldron Republican 318 votes only two less than Mr Savage and three more than Mr Fulton both Democrats. It will also be seen from Judge Whitten's opinion that no question is made as to the right of seven out of the fifteen rejected Democratic votes, to vote the Legislative ticket. If, then we reduce the Democratic vote (for Savage and Fulton) by eight and give the Republican candidates the votes to which they were clearly entitled, they were, as we said legally elected.

Again the Herald says:

> We do not doubt his integrity but fealty to a universal rule of the party may have warped his judgment in this instance. Besides the Judge was as we have already remarked, a candidate at that election himself and was voted against by each one of the fifteen Democrats whose votes he pronounces illegal. A little personal feeling was very likely then to have entered into the matter.

How far the Judge's fealty to his party may have influenced him we leave the unbiased who may read the opinion to judge of but certainly he could not have been led to decide as he did by any hope or thought of advantage to himself as only three of the fifteen Democratic votes thrown out were disqualified from voting anywhere in the judicial district in which he was a candidate. It seems impossible for such Democratic papers as the Herald and the Enterprise to conceive of an act, judicial or otherwise performed without an ulterior view to political effect. With them, verily out of the fullness of the heart the mouth speaketh.

Since the Rev Joseph Chadband concluded to enter for the Senatorial race, the Kelly slate has been considered, in Democratic circles as smashed and now Senatorial aspirants are springing up out of all conceivable corners of the State thicker than grasshoppers (no reference to the Jim species). There are now speaking with conscientious prudence no less than thirty two Democratic candidates of various grades, in the Wallamet valley alone. There are the positive candidates who go in their whole pile to win or be busted; the provisional candidates who will go in, in the same manner, under certain contingencies; the possible candidates who hope to slip into the race through the inextricable tangles in which they are helping to involve the chiefs; and so on through a long list down to the numberless crowd of little fellows who are standing with bared heads in the middle of the open field on the mere chance that lightning may strike them. The Senatorial contest is approaching the ludicrous stage.

As Usual

Last spring an expose of some disgracefully dishonest transactions by certain Democratic county officers of Umatilla county was published. The statements were not controverted, nor probably could they have been. Now we have statements in the Mountaineer to the effect that certain Democratic county officers of Wasco county have been taking certain fat pickings from the county treasury not contemplated by law and that legal proceedings will be commenced against several of them for malfeasance in office and to recover the stealings. This is not an unusual finding at the end of a long term of Democratic administration.

It is said that Beriah Brown has been engaged to write editorially for the Olympia Standard. From the San Francisco Democratic Press down to the Oregon Herald! from the Herald down to the Salem Press and from the Salem Press down to the Olympia Standard. Verily if the venerable editor keeps on boring downward in this way he will soon be unquestionably entitled to the appellation Bedrock Democrat. He is mighty near the bedrock now.

The Republican Congressional Committee has issued a circular in which the Republican State and Congressional Committees in the several States are respectfully requested to place themselves in communication with this Committee at their earliest convenience with a view to co-operate in the coming elections. All communications should be addressed to Hon J H Platt M C Secretary of the Union Congressional Republican Committee Washington D C.

The World the leading Democratic newspaper of the United States is hurling anathemas at the Republican Administration because when the Prussian minister informed Secretary Fish that private property at sea would be exempt from seizure [illegible] ships the Secretary returned a courteous reply in which he spoke of the great and enlightened German Government. The World would have put it "the ignorant Dutch."

The anti Tammany Democrats of the Eighteenth Ward New York have nominated Sheriff O'Brien for Mayor and they urge upon other wards a similar course. It is sought to form a coalition with the Republicans and make a determined fight against Tweed & Co.

A pamphlet was published [illegible] at [illegible] [illegible] an old Spanish statesman, and he says he projected [illegible] with himself. It is pretty said [illegible] that it did not emanate from the Prussian Government.

The Eugene Journal says of the harvest in Lane county that the wheat crop is good, and the yield will be greater than it has been for years. Oats will not be so good in this vicinity. We understand that a few thousand bushels of wheat has been contracted for in this county at 75 cents per bushel.

The Statesman of Sunday says: "The bids for redemption of State Bounty Bonds—there were only two—were opened by the State Treasurer Hon E N Cooke yesterday and were both for par each came from Portland Oregon State credit is so fair that holders of State bonds will not discount them."

The Mountaineer says: "During the past fiscal year county warrants to the amount of $12,714 83 were paid by our (Wasco) County Treasurer and warrants to the amount of $15 849 07 were issued and not paid for want of funds. Total amount necessary to run the county the last fiscal year, was $28 564 90. Rather a large amount for a small county."

Lieut Guthrie and Mr Mason McCoy arrived in town, says the Mountaineer, on Thursday, direct from Camp Warner, having in charge six military prisoners, whom they were taking to Cape Disappointment for confinement. Mr McCoy informs us that Mr Henry Martin, of this city, while en route, by himself, for Camp Warner on a new route got lost and traveled several days without water, but had arrived at Camp Warner all safe and sound the day before they left.

The women of Detroit are learning to play base ball. What with female ball clubs, female boat clubs and the like it would seem that the fair sex are likely to secure their "rights" quite as rapidly as the most radical could desire.

A Georgia neighborhood is discussing the law point whether a man has a right to put rattlesnakes in his strawberry patch to guard them from his neighbor's children one youngster having lost his life from such a constabulary.

A Washington gentleman, the other day, tried the experiment of carrying $1 460 in one dollar bills in his hat but a gust of wind took off his hat, scattering the greenbacks in every direction and leaving him a $300 poorer, if not a wiser man.

A lady in Saybrook Ohio was struck lately by lightning but not seriously injured. It raised a large bump on her head, tore her dress and one shoe and cut a gash in one foot. Under the circumstances it seems strange she was not killed instantly.

New York has a big proposition. Some one wants a grand building constructed all around the city for docks and piers. Here all public business is to be transacted and the top 700 feet wide is to form a public promenade and garden. It is only a proposition as yet.

A resident of St Joseph, Mo, has filed a petition in the Circuit Court for a divorce but more particularly to recover a sum of $8 000 which his wife induced him to place in her charge subsequently attempting to drive him from his own house "penniless and alone."

An insurance company in Philadelphia refuses to pay insurance on property destroyed by fire on the 10th of July in that city taking the ground that the fire which destroyed the property was the result of a riot, and the city is responsible for all destruction of property within its limits that is caused by riots. The riot was created and conducted by Fenians. The litigation consequent upon the position of the company will operate as another incentive to the organization of a paid fire department.

Peter Cartwright the noted Methodist preacher spoke at Dubuque Iowa a few days ago and a paper of that city remarks: "It was a strange sight and one we may never expect to see again to behold a man in the pulpit before us who was eighty six years old and had been eighty years a citizen of the West and who sixty years ago crossed the Mississippi where is now St Louis. He preached in the State of Illinois when Chicago was unknown and he has spent sixty years in the saddle riding through the great West."

The Hon John A Halderman, Mayor of Leavenworth was lately summoned before a Police Justice for permitting a nuisance to exist in a street in that town. On being called upon to plead the Mayor thus expressed himself: "Really sir I presume that the matter is a joke. The fact of my being called here appears to me too absurd—too absurd." "Sir" responded the magistrate "if this appears as a joke I shall culminate it by inflicting a fine of $10 just by way of a joke sir—just by way of a joke."

THE WAR IN EUROPE!

Fall of Strasburg Reported and Denied

RUMORS OF A GREAT BATTLE BEFORE METZ

SURRENDER OF PFALSBURG

The Advance of the Prussians Checked

BRUSSELS August 13. Advices from Metz through private channels seem to confirm the story of the removal of the Prince Imperial from France. He has not been seen in Court or Church since Sunday. It is reported on excellent authority that Eugenie has made preparations to go to England by Belgium in case of necessity.

LONDON August 13.—A special to the Telegraph says reports from Carlsruhe this morning announce the capitulation of Strasburg after a short bombardment.

Sharp fighting took place in front of Metz yesterday. A considerable force of Prussians advanced into the environs of the city as a reconnoitering party to discover if the report of the town having been evacuated by the French was true. They were taken by surprise by a fire from the batteries and forced to retire.

Reinforcements for the French both of men and stores are constantly and rapidly arriving.

It would appear that the Prussian advance has received a decided check at this point and a great battle cannot much longer be delayed.

PARIS August 13.—Dispatches to the Minister of War of the recent reconnoissance made near the enemy indicate that the Prussians have an invading army of 400 000 men between Cologne and Rastadt. The chiefs are fully prepared to resist this torrent of invasion. Over 400 000 troops will in a day or two be united between the Vosges and Moselle. The bulk of the French army are now concentrated around Metz where the first detachment of the corps of McMahon arrived yesterday. The retreat of the troops was made in good order.

The abandonment of Alsace by the French causes great anxiety and discontent at and near Strasburg which place is well provided for in war material and provisions but the garrison it is feared will not be able to hold out long.

LONDON August 13.—The Globe is informed that the French army holds the best possible position on the Moselle and their front is at right angles with their line of communication with Paris.

Gen Changarnier has been appointed Commandant of the fortress of Metz.

The corps at Chalons consisting of new levies is being rapidly organized by Gen Trochu, and a new corps is forming at Paris under General Vendes.

Volunteers are coming forward in large numbers in Paris and the city is full of recruits coming in from the departments. Additional orders have been issued calling the Garde Mobile into service in those departments not embraced in previous calls.

Prussian spies swarm in the French capital and the police are busily searching for them. Many have already been arrested.

LONDON August 13.—Baraguay d'Hilliers has returned to his original command at Tours.

Disturbances have taken place at Toulon Marseilles and Lyons and martial law has been proclaimed in the department of Bouches Du Rhone.

Concealed arms and ammunition have been seized in Paris supposed to belong to parties dangerous to the Government. The police are seeking the owners.

La Liberte has a vigorous article advocating the repeal of all political proscriptions.

The French claim that Strasburg is thoroughly prepared for siege. They say 400 cannon are mounted on the ramparts, and the garrison consists of 11 000 men without counting the National Guard.

The John Bull says the friends of Napoleon urge him to seek an alliance with Austria by offering Francis Joseph all territory that may be acquired from Prussia by their united arms.

The Shipping Gazette says, in the view of those whose opinion deserves respect, the war is virtually closed.

The King of Prussia has issued a proclamation at St Avold in which he declares the military conscription is abolished in all French territory occupied by German troops.

PARIS August 13—Midnight.—It is rumored that a great battle is now going on at Metz. The news is suppressed and it may be impossible to get the particulars before to morrow.

LONDON, August 13.—A Herald cable dispatch says: The French Embassy has received a report from Paris that there was fighting to day before Metz and that the attack was made by the French. No report of the fight has been received in this city from correspondents.

Pfalsburg the key of the Vosges 25 miles from Strasbourg has surrendered to the Prussians. The Crown Prince's army had left Pfalsburg in the rear long before the surrender.

LONDON, August 13.—Holland has sent 1 200 volunteers to serve in the Papal army.

Seattle Dispatch—The Commerce of the Sound—Great Fires Raging

SEATTLE Aug 13.—During the year ending June 30th there were 272 arrivals of vessels at the Custom House at Port Townsend, more than half of which were from foreign ports. In the same period there were 248 departures. The imports from foreign countries amounted to $43 195. Imports coast wise not ascertained. Shipments from the Sound are estimated at $3 000 000.

The Seattle Intelligencer now publishes a tri weekly and weekly newspaper.

The weather continues warm and dry.

Fires are raging in the woods in all parts of the Territory destroying a large amount of timber and seriously interrupting telegraphic communication.

Owing to dense smoke navigation on the Sound is becoming quite difficult.

Some estimate can be reached of the immense amount of treasure being shipped the present season from Montana, says the Helena Herald of July 2 by the amount expressed every day by Wells Fargo & Co. In June nearly $100 000 went from the Helena office alone. We have the best authority for saying that $500 000 will be the amount shipped for the month of July. Immense sums are sent from other points in the Territory the aggregate amounting to millions.

Utah may be expected to be the next claimant for admission to the Union as a State. Ten years ago it contained the requisite population and might then have been admitted but for the legal complications involved in the institution of polygamy. It is estimated that the Territory now contains 150 000 people of whom 20 000 reside at Salt Lake City. The revival of the question will recall the stormy epochs of the Mormon establishment in Missouri of the flight from Nauvoo and the late beginnings in the Desert. It must not be forgotten that even before polygamy became the recognized institution in Mormon polity the habit of voting [illegible] at the bidding of their spiritual superiors made them umpires of the political situation in their earlier location and might still exert a disastrous influence upon a close and critical national contest.

PAINFUL REFLECTION.

The Philanthropist's heart is painfully grieved to witness apathy on the part of those whose condition he seeks to ameliorate. Ignorance alone can relieve the subject to be benefitted from the charge of ingratitude. How then can those hope to escape this imputation that fail to acknowledge the superior merit of NEWELL'S PULMONARY SYRUP as the most effective remedy ever offered to an appreciative public for the certain and speedy cure of all affections of the lungs of whatever nature.

RUMORS [illegible] DISCHARGED.—Within the last few days about a hundred men have been discharged from the railroad and a considerable [illegible] of them have arrived in this city and [illegible] about and grumbling. Many of them claim that they were discharged without [illegible] and intimations have appeared from [illegible] this quarter that there was a [illegible] to Chinamen. We know nothing whatever of Mr Holladay's intentions in this behalf nor is it any of our business but we have a version of the whole matter from one of the discharged men which puts it in quite another light from that given by the grumblers. He says that no reason was assigned for the discharge but that it was very well understood by some of the men who were discharged it was to be [illegible] with their employers. The men were discharged in a body because they would not [illegible] for labor. As soon as the bosses were out of sight the greater part of the [illegible] [illegible] work but they [illegible] their [illegible] insults and sometimes [illegible] to [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] various expedients were adopted to weed out the good workmen from the others so that for all practical purposes such of them were [illegible] and so the whole force was discharged by a new boss who refused to stand any nonsense. [illegible] that the story comes from one of the discharged men sufficiently illustrates the matter without resorting to the trick of ascribing bad motives to the employers. If it be true the men are scarcely entitled to the sympathy they are seeking to obtain as martyrs and victims.

DUTCH [illegible].—An enthusiastic German on [illegible] has erected a flagstaff and proposes [illegible] from it a Prussian standard.

The density of the smoke on the lower Columbia renders navigation difficult.

The steamer California brought up a lot of machinery for the new saw mill near Milwaukie.

The wife of L E A Coon formerly of Vancouver died near Rumford Maine on the 29th of June last.

There were two applications at the Labor Exchange on Saturday.

Bishop Ames preached at the M E Church yesterday morning and Rev C C McCabe in the evening.

The Sheriff of Walla Walla brought down on Friday an insane man named Kellogg destined for the asylum at Monroe.

During the hot weather last week there was some loss of animals among the droves in the south. Many sheep especially, fell down and died.

A diving apparatus has been received from San Francisco to be used in connection with the Wallamet bridge enterprise.

A lone lorn creetur of the name of Boggs has brought suit against a faithless lover named Morris to recover the value of a $3,000 heart smashed all to smithereens, as is alleged by broken promises.

BERIAH'S RETIREMENT.—The Herald of yesterday morning contains the valedictory of Mr S C Simpson who has been connected, editorially with that paper since last spring. Simpson confesses that his curiosity concerning political journalism has been fully gratified and he is content to retire to more congenial employments. His successor is not announced, and the paper is left in the hands of an able and experienced gentleman who has heretofore contributed an occasional article to its editorial columns.

Another notable retirement is that of Dr A A [illegible] from the associate editorship of the Bulletin. The Doctor announces the fact in a brief and [illegible] paragraph. We learn that he will probably return to San Francisco and resume his old position upon the Alta.

THE WALLAMET RIVER BRIDGE.—The drawings for the bridge across the Wallamet river at this city, arrived by the last steamer and may be seen at Ladd & Tilton's bank. The specifications are not yet received but the dimensions of the bridge are shown by the drawings as follows: Total length 2 000 feet. Two spans of 150 feet each [illegible] feet constructed on the improved Howe truss plan, a draw of 200 feet resting on a pier 54 feet long and 19 feet wide, and the approaches of 50 feet each. Width of roadway 18 feet. On each side there will be a foot passage 5 feet wide. The piers are to be of wood, built in crib form and to be anchored with stone. The bridge is to be so constructed as to admit of the construction of a railway track on the top. It is understood that the site for the bridge will be selected this month.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.—The various public schools of District No 1 in this city will be opened for the fall term to day. The following is a list of the teachers engaged for the term:

[illegible] TAKES A PREE AT THE [illegible]—[illegible] days since one J Mctiu[illegible] came to [illegible] city from the Northern coast and hav[illegible]g [illegible] about his person concluded that he [illegible] it in any better way than in [illegible] at the [illegible] of the city. Now [illegible] has some features which are seen to be [illegible] under the gas lights [illegible] J [illegible] wanted to see those particular features [illegible] preliminary step he did not like a [illegible] make a deposit with the [illegible] but went and got fuddled. After [illegible] his prudence began to as[illegible] and to clamor that J [illegible] his funds with some chance or [illegible] This he finally did and then went [illegible] The end of it was as [illegible] been expected that J McGuire go[illegible] very drunk that he went to bed [illegible] a thing which a capt[illegible] ought [illegible] because it subjects him to the sus[illegible] This is exactly what [illegible] J McGuire and it led him to make [illegible] appearance one morning be[illegible] Recorder. Then came a sus[illegible] McGuire's mind that he couldn't [illegible] the names and locations of the [illegible] he had entrusted the custody of [illegible] And though the police was invoked to [illegible] it is said that nobody else can be [illegible] trifling exception perhaps) who [illegible] better recollection concerning such de[illegible] than has J McGuire and the presump[illegible]on [illegible] money of our friend from the northern [illegible] where the woodbine twineth.

[illegible] HANDS DISCHARGED.—Within the [illegible] days, about a hundred men have been [illegible] from the railroad and a considerable [illegible] of them have arrived in this city and [illegible] around idle and grumbling. Many [illegible] that they were discharged without [illegible] have appeared from cer[illegible] that they were discharged to give [illegible] We know nothing whatever [illegible] intentions in this behalf nor is [illegible] business, but we have a version of [illegible] from one of the discharged men [illegible] in quite another light from that [illegible] the grumblers. He says that no reason [illegible] for the discharge but that it was [illegible] understood by some of the men who [illegible] to do the fair thing with their em[illegible] The men were discharged in a body be[illegible] would not do fair labor. As soon as [illegible] out of sight the greater part of [illegible] not only quit work but they com[illegible] others, by jeers insults and sometimes [illegible] to quit also. Various expedients [illegible] to weed out the good workers from [illegible] for all practical purposes such of [illegible] and so the whole force was [illegible] by a new boss who refused to stand [illegible] It strikes us that this story com[illegible] of the discharged men, sufficiently [illegible] matter, without resorting to the trick [illegible] had motives to the employers. POLITICAL NOTES

The political campaign has opened in Indiana.

A Boston paper nominates ex Attorney General Hoar for Governor of Massachusetts.

The Democracy of Delaware fight under no other name than that of the "White Man's Party."

Henry D Foster, who lost his seat in Congress on a contest with John Covode is again the Democratic candidate for Congress in the Twenty-first District of Pennsylvania.

Elections will be held this fall in all the States except Oregon California New Hampshire Connecticut and Rhode Island. Sixteen States are to choose United States Senators and five have already done so.

In the Second Congressional District of New Jersey Hon Charles Haight the present member had a majority of 80[illegible] The colored vote of the district is quite large and will give it to the Republicans if they are active and energetic.

Wretched Democracy! They have fallen so low that even the Conservatives of Virginia are not so poor as to do them reverence. The Richmond Whig declares that the former have resisted all overtures to form an alliance with the National Democracy. They have sunk somewhat but they still have a little pride.

The Savannah (Ga) News says: Among other prominent Radicals Hill Warner Brown Safford Bard Bryant Pope Farrow Akerman and Andrews are known to oppose Bullock's scheme for defeating the election this fall and it is believed that without the aid of Democratic votes in the Legislature he cannot carry it.

It is understood that the Republicans of New York will make strong nominations and have a thorough canvass. Among the names said to be most considered for the nomination for Governor those of George Dawson of Albany Amasa B James of Ogdensburg William A Wheeler of Malone and Stewart L Woodford of Brooklyn occur as most prominent.

Says the New Haven [illegible]: A story comes by way of Washington that there is some talk of running Motley for United States Senator from Massachusetts in place of Henry Wilson. It is said Wilson saw this when Motley's removal was talked of and that this prompted him to write the letter which he addressed to the President against the removal of Motley. Should Motley consent to be a candidate for the Senate it is believed by prominent Massachusetts men that he will be elected over all other aspirants.

The following is said to be a political slate made up in Boston: [illegible] Butler to be United States Senator; Mr Wilson Collector at Boston, the present Collector Russell taking Mr H[illegible]'s place in Congress and Dr Loring [illegible] the next Governor [illegible] Claflin going to Congress in place of Mr Twichell. That this is the substance of things hoped for by many of the politicians is perhaps true, says the Springfield Republican, but the people have already made up their minds that Gov Claflin must serve them in the same capacity another year and will have something to say about the other places when the time comes.

FOREIGN NOTES

An eagle was shot a few days back near [illegible] in Austria bearing a collar with the date 1716 and some arms partially effaced by time and exposure to the weather.

Dr Livingstone is alive once more and has been heard from. Dr Kirk at Zanzibar has had a letter from him and he is soon to make his appearance at one of the European settlements.

The burner of a church [illegible] he [illegible] the Thames [illegible] health was given [illegible] public speaking.

As one of the strongest incentives to war the French journals said that if France had once more submitted [illegible] be insulted and outwitted by Bismarck [illegible] now man [illegible] character would have consented [illegible] a Frenchman's arm.

A native of Flemish Prussia writes to M Granier de Cassagnac that the German people on the left bank of the Rhine do not desire annexation to France [illegible] that [illegible] the French must destroy the armies and [illegible] of the German Confederation [illegible] M de Cassagnac replies that [illegible] alternatives [illegible] France will go to the Rhine or Prussia will go [illegible] the Pyrenees.

Belgium which France proposed to annex has an area of only 11 26[illegible] square miles but has a population of 3 83[illegible] being thus the most densely inhabited country in Europe. She has a standing army of 40 000 men and when on a war footing her forces number 100 000. Besides the standing army she has a National Guard representing about 400 [illegible] men. Belgium has an extensive commerce and her finances are in a very satisfactory state.

There are in France 3[illegible] 10[illegible] 212 Catholics 94[illegible] 502 Protestants 89 04[illegible] Israelites 24 126 who belong to other religions or have no religion at all. Also 46 063 members of the Catholic clergy—cardinals archbishops bishops curates vi[illegible]ars etc—are paid by the State costing together 42 539 250 francs or 923 francs per head. [illegible] members of the Protestant clergy annually receive [illegible] francs or [illegible] francs per head and 133 Jewish divines receive together 161 700 francs or 1 211 francs each.

The inhabitants of a parish in Bohemia have lately exemplified the fact that a more than verbal connection may be established between things spiritual and spirituous. Having erected a new church they proceeded to dispose of the old one but the moment the common property became converted under the auctioneer's hammer into a divisible equivalent the good people were much puzzled about how it was to be properly shared. A happy thought struck some rogue whose powers of swallowing liquor was in adverse proportion to his industrial status—let the proceeds be invested in spirits. The counsel was approved of and the church was publicly drunk by the satisfied parishioners who probably got drunk too.

THE great railroad era has dawned upon this State. The locomotive whistle is already heard in our midst. The North Pacific [illegible] have a regiment of engineers and surveyors in the field and will soon have thousands of men constructing the road. Hundreds of new settlers are arriving every month to build up our State and develop her resources. But it matters not how many come K[illegible] & FISHEL will be ready for them with all kinds of Clothing and Staple goods. They are constant[illegible] receiving fresh supplies by every steamer so that [illegible] can't be exhausted. Call and see them at their old stand on Front street.

NE LECTED COUGHS AND COLDS.—Few are aware of the importance of checking a Cough or Common Cold in its first stage. That which in the beginning would yield to a mild remedy if neglected soon preys upon the Lungs. Brown's Bronchial Troches or Cough Lozenges afford instant relief.

Owing to the good reputation and popularity of the Troches many worthless and cheap imitations are offered which are good for nothing. Be sure to obtain the true Brown's Bronchial Troches. Sold everywhere.

$1 000 REWARD is offered by the proprietor of Dr Pierce's Alt Extract or Golden Medical Discovery for a medicine that will equal it in the cure of all diseases for which it is recommended. For Bronchitis severe Coughs and the early stages of Consumption it has astonished the medical faculty by its wonderful cures, and hundreds of the best physicians pronounce it the greatest medical discovery of the age. While it cures the severest coughs it strengthens the system and purifies the blood. As a [illegible] Pimples on the face, Eruptions, Blotches, Scrofulous diseases and Liver Complaint or biliousness it has never been equaled. Sold by druggists. The genuine has Dr Pierce's private Government Revenue Stamp on the outside wrapper.

'DOT'

It was cold [illegible] and nothing [illegible] the highway but invaded the privat[e] [illegible] itself into the [illegible] than this or their [illegible]. It was utterly destitute of good breeding, or the slightest sense of honor that [illegible] escaped its scrutiny, and having no respect for persons, it burst into the [illegible] the smoke impertinently at the [illegible] wife, on purpose to make her sneeze [illegible] venerable personage sat with his back to the fire, [illegible] in perfect luxury of mind, body and [illegible]. The flame blazed in steady defiance of the powers of the air, shedding a ruddy glow on the carpet, curtains and carefully polished mahogany [illegible] on the features of an old man standing behind the table who returned the Postmistress's smile unconsciously although it was raging that he did not know [illegible]

'You must see, Tom,' [illegible] the former, 'that the offer is a capital one for you. The child will be boarded, clothed and educated in a very different way from what she is [illegible]. You have not the means to provide for her. I do not understand how you can hesitate for a moment.'

'Thank you humbly, sir,' said the old man, and in truth the reverence and humility of his manner could not have been greater to the Queen herself.

'Thank you very humbly.'

But the tone expressed something beside deference. The argument was clear and unanswerable, yet he was not convinced. He turned in full perplexity to the [Postmis]tress.

'Remember,' she said kindly, guessing his thoughts, 'it will not be parting from the child; you shall come as often as you like to see her every day if you fancy. And what a pleasure it will be to watch her growing up so well cared for and happy.'

Persuasion had more power than reason; yet neither was strong enough to convince him. There remained some hidden objection which words would not or could not reveal. His helpless silence roused the Postmaster's impatience.

'Sir,' said the old man at length, 'I'll speak to Dot.'

'Suppose,' suggested the Postmistress, 'we leave the matter for the present. Think of it to-night, and let us know to-morrow. There is no need to hurry yourself in deciding the question.'

Tom assented gratefully, and with a profound obeisance left the room. Once out in the open air the wind met him face to face, and shook and buffeted him until he thought he had never known how threadbare and scanty his coat really was. He was fain to draw it closely around him to prevent the blast penetrating to his very heart, thereby proving itself to be not merely unscrupulous but unfeeling.

The struggle with the unseen enemy was desperate, but not so fierce or violent as the conflict within, in the heat of which the chills of the outer world were forgotten.

Fortune had not bestowed upon Tom a brilliant career, nor were his circumstances the most enviable. To beggary was added neglect and ill usage; to these were added the misfortune of bodily deformity, and the sum total of misery produced rose to a fearful amount. How he contrived to scramble from boyhood to manhood heaven knows—if, indeed, a creature may be dignified by the name of man who can only be so called in the sense of his being a few degrees higher than the beasts of the field, and many lower than the angels. Yet this poor soul was not without his ambition. His highest aim had been to attain the rank of cobbler. He could conceive no greater happiness—and his desire was fulfilled. In the service of a harsh parsimonious master in a dark back room he cobbled and was content, but he was doomed to lose even this small gratification. His eyesight gradually failed and he was compelled to give up work. He yielded not only without a murmur, but with cheerfulness, being accustomed to receive thankfully, but to ask nothing. A few small shop-keepers, out of compassion, employed him on errands, and by this means he picked up a livelihood. In such circumstances it is difficult to conceive any room for happiness, or any loop hole through which hope, comfort or joy could enter. The poor cripple seemed to have no heritage in the delights of a beautiful world. Yet to the very lowest there is always a heaven at hand.

One bitter night he was returning home. As he passed under the archway he saw a child seated upon a step, her eyes closed, her face and hands blue with cold. He bent over her. For the first time in his life he recognized a link between himself and a fellow creature. She was also cold, poor and lonely. They were equally miserable. Seized by a sudden impulse, he lifted her in his arms and carried her through the streets to his wretched garret. Then taking off his coat, he wrapped her in it, and commenced rubbing the icy hands and feet. After some time the child opened her eyes, and from that moment the strong bond between them was sealed forever.

She never left him. He soon lavished upon her all the devotion of an undying nature. In return, the poor little heathen, who had never entered a church in her life, thought nothing on earth so worshipful as Tom, and adored no other Deity. A new life had dawned upon them both, a great mine of wealth had been opened. They were no longer poor, lonely, desolate. Call it infatuation, or what you will, it was a wonderful power which could thus transform want into plenty, cold into warmth, comfortlessness into luxury—one of those few inexplicable powers which combat and conquer Death.

It can now be understood what was the old man's despair when the Postmistress sent for him and proposed to adopt the child. She had taken a fancy to the little thing, and having learnt the destitute condition in which the two lived, never doubted her charitable offer would be thankfully accepted. The old man could not rejoice. He could only realize the one miserable fact—she must go. He hastened home very dejected, and when in sight of the house thought it never before had looked so poor. The roof was broken in several places and slates wanting. The window, in which a faint light glimmered, was patched with paper, the walls were discolored with the damp, and the door was low.

As he groped his way up the rickety stairs he sighed involuntarily.

'Oh, Dot, Dot, I'd like to take all the shine and warmth out of that house before I ever tell of it to you!'

On entering he peered through the darkness for the one object which made the room light to him. The child knelt close to the fire sewing some coarse garment. Her gentle, quiet face, with the short brown hair brushed smoothly off it, possessed all the [illegible] power and purpose of woman[hood] [illegible] sparkled with [illegible] but she greeted him with [illegible] anger.

'I was hoping,' she said with dignity, '[illegible] side all night [illegible] in the face [illegible] told you yesterday.'

Tom hung his head with the [illegible] ness of guilt [illegible] enjoyment.

'No,' he said meekly. 'I remember. It was not to be late again.'

'The very words,' replied Dot sternly, 'and yet here you are. What did you think I'd do? Weren't you frightened of me?'

'No,' said the other submissively.

'Well, I wonder you weren't,' she continued, with cruel determination. 'I've been thinking and have settled what to do. First, I hit upon a fine to [illegible] no punishment at all. And then I said no supper but [illegible] So I'll have it [illegible] with it [illegible] into the press.'

At this, unable to keep up her part any longer, she looked at him and they both laughed gaily. The fact was the three last mentioned articles were dainties never seen in poor Tom's cupboard from year's end to year's end. Enough was truly a feast to them, and one of very rare occurrence. This grand stretch of imagination fully supplied the absence of these luxuries. Tom was enchanted.

'I don't wonder,' he continued she gravely, '[illegible] you took the supper here. But my mind's [illegible] no going to give in.'

There is no doubt the table [illegible] The [illegible] magnificent. It [illegible] of [illegible] one tumbler, two saucers and a clumsy pocket knife, rather the worse for wear. Nor was the palate tempted by much variety. It boasted only half [illegible] between two things, [illegible] and [illegible] want of one thing.

[illegible] All this [illegible] his mouth was [illegible]

[illegible] just what I want.

He [illegible] but he could not take a mouthful. His eyes were fixed on the little with a longing, yearning gaze. She [illegible] was his sustenance and refreshment. [illegible] live without her?

'Dot,' [illegible] everything looks poor. [illegible] floor [illegible] all the coals it would hold, and would not [illegible] curtain at the window [illegible] to keep out the wind. Say [illegible]'

She [illegible] her eyes in silent astonishment [illegible] After a few minutes scrutiny, 'I should say,' she replied, 'there [illegible] the pleasantest thing in the room to look at.'

And [illegible] that was not saying [illegible]

'Tell me,' [illegible] Tom anxiously, 'is it poor, very poor?'

The child nodded assent.

'Ah!' he sighed, 'I knew it,' [illegible] gently. 'How would you like to be always warm and well fed, to have everything soft [illegible] wind to [illegible] at night? Could you fancy it [illegible]'

She shook her head. 'No, she [illegible]'

[illegible] blind [illegible] I shall [illegible]

She opened [illegible] and the picture before her in as bright colors as he could muster. When [illegible] he [illegible] closed the Postmistress had proposed.

'My darling,' he faltered, when he had scrupulously satisfied his conscience, 'you didn't guess I was bringing such good news with me, did you? Can you believe you have only one more night to spend in this poor place—one more night to be miserable?'

Dot was silent for some time.

'Strange,' she [illegible] musingly, [illegible] she paused.

'Child,' said the old man, 'I'll go with you to the door to-morrow, but I'll not go in. I couldn't bear that. I couldn't stand seeing your face when you learn for the first time what a poor little beggar you've been all these years unbeknown to you. I'll wait outside and you'll come down and say good bye before I go altogether. Don't put on any finery they'll give you. I'm far too wretched a creature not to like that frock best. I'll not keep you a minute. Do you understand?'

'Dot [illegible]. It was difficult to guess what was passing through her mind.

'Now,' said he, tenderly, 'go to bed. The time will pass quicker sleeping than any other way.'

She obeyed, but before lying down she went to the old man and threw her arms around him without a word. It was impossible to discover what lay behind those sober brown eyes. Tom stationed himself beside her till she fell asleep. The fire died out, but the moonlight streaming through the small window shone upon his motionless form in the same place. He could not bring himself to leave her. When she awoke his face was the first sight that greeted her.

'Dear,' he said cheerily, 'only a few hours now. Aren't you very happy?'

Their scanty morning meal, consisting of the remains of last night's supper, was taken in silence. When finished, Dot put on her shawl and arranged her shabby threadbare garment to the best advantage. Tom watched her without a word. The two then descended the stair into the street. Suddenly he turned and, pointing to the house, whispered to her:

'Don't it seem impossible now you could have been happy in such a place? and strange that you didn't know that you were miserable there till last night?'

When they reached the Postmaster's house she left him. He followed her eagerly with his eyes till the door closed.

'I shouldn't wonder,' he muttered as he paced up and down, 'if she were to forget me after all. It would only be natural, wouldn't it?' and he appealed to himself as to a second person. Receiving no reply, he continued: 'It would be very wrong if she didn't like what's warm better than what's cold, and what's beautiful better than what's ugly. Very bad taste! I couldn't grudge it to her—could I?'

By this time he was again in front of the house. He stopped involuntarily, and closing his eyes, stretched out his hands toward it, saying:

'God bless little Dot, always.'

When he looked up she stood by his side and the door was shut. He bent over her with infinite tenderness.

'My darling,' he said, 'I'll not keep you. Say one good bye and then go.'

But the child had slipped her hand in his.

'Just a little way up the street,' she said.

'No, really,' exclaimed he, delighted.

They [illegible] the corner and [illegible]

'A few steps further,' persisted she.

'No, really!' repeated the other, astonished.

'I want,' she said as they drew near the house, 'just to go up and give a last look, do you mind?'

They mounted the stair, and he lingered at the door.

'Why should you?' he urged sorrowfully. 'Wouldn't it be better to say good bye here?'

She pushed gently past him and entered.

'Yes,' said he, sadly watching her face, 'you didn't know till now how wretched I was, did you?'

Dot turned to him and hung her head without speaking. There was evidently something that she wished but was ashamed to say.

'Dad,' she whispered at length, 'there's no help for it. I was born miserable, a beggar, and I must always remain so. Please I'll stay.'

He pointed silently to the few ashes in the grate and the broken loaf on the table. She [illegible]

'No,' she pleaded gently. 'I haven't forgotten, but I'd rather be cold and hungry [illegible]'

Receiving no answer she knelt beside his chair and put her arms round him.

'Are you disappointed? Are you sorry?' she exclaimed anxiously.

The old man took the small face in his two hands [illegible]

'I see,' she said, 'you couldn't [illegible] you [illegible] how I hated the place and grudged your going.'

[illegible]

'No,' he [illegible] 'it wasn't you nor anybody but my own [illegible]'

'Then you choose to remain here?'

'Yes,' she whispered, 'I [illegible] believe [illegible]'

'Please ma'am,' said Dot, lingering close to her [illegible] 'and I thank you all the same, [illegible] I shouldn't like Dad [illegible] when I'm not within reach to hear him, and may be he might feel the room a little strange [illegible] and [illegible] ma'am, all the same, and I'd rather not.'

'Not [illegible]' repeated the other, surprised. 'Do you really mean it?'

'You see,' said the child, her face flushing, 'I couldn't be warm with him old for satisfied with him hungry, and I know he'll be awake at nights, not because of the wind, but for the thinking of me. Besides he always cries his victuals less [illegible] So [illegible] rather not.'

GEN. BUTLER AT [illegible]—At a party at Washington where General Butler was a guest, the hostess, glancing over the table, perceived his cup unfurnished with an important implement of which he was supposed to appreciate the value. 'Why, General Butler,' she exclaimed in a little womanly flutter of consternation, 'haven't you a spoon?' 'Not one, madam,' quickly responded the General, springing from his seat with well acted earnestness and slapping his pockets one after the other. 'Upon my word, madame, if you don't believe me, you may search me!' The applause which greeted this sport [illegible] more easily imagined than described.
